Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

The last hope of the CIO communists in this county to force the community, including both mine owners and mine workers, to pay them tribute is swept away. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals on Tuesday ruled that the Idaho Maryland is not in interstate commerce, and that, were the contentions of the Labor Board upheld every employer throughout the land would come under the jurisdiction of the Labor Board. There is a possibility that the Labor Board will appeal to the United States Supreme Court. The Labor Board, however, is now battling for its existence on all fronts and we doubt whether it will carry further its attempt to put Nevada County under tribute to John L. Lewis and his assorted communists.

We believe that city councils and the Board of Supervisors should join in a congratulatory letter to Edgar Zook and Robert Searls, the attorneys whose reasoning regarding the contentions of the Labor Board, the U. S. Court of Appeals found to be sound. We well remember the hearing, presided over by one Pat McNally ,examiner for the Labor Board whose rulings on hearsay evidence, rumor, and the weight given to the opinions of men, on mining technicalities, who had difficulty in writing their own names, filled mining engineers and distinterested spectators with profound amazement. The ignorance of the examiner as regarding mining matters was even second to that of some of his witnesses.

We also remember that when John Bongard, state investigator, took the stand to testify regarding high grading in the Idaho Maryland, estimating the steal of high graders, in that one mine alone, at something like a quarter of a million dollars annually, that there were several in the audience who listened to him with pallid faces and the pop-eyed interest of rabbits when they sight a hound. For some reason Bongard was an unpopular witness.

During the preliminaries to the trial of the five men, recently convicted of rioting, when defense attorneys were going through their legal gymnastics, making motions for disqualifying Judge Tuttle, for change of venue, and in general affording the large audience of CIO members a great deal of entertainment in learned legal reasoning, a significant statement was made by one of the defendants. The judge had overruled another motion and the court room was emptying into the corridor. Every one seemed to think the show had been well worth seeing, and hearing, except this cynical defendant, who remarked to his comrades: "Well, we ain't got nothin' yet." This simple statement of fact, eminating from a mind that penetrated beyond the flubdub, gestures and veiled impudence of legal fencing, can now be applied to a wider field. Not only in the local courts but in the United States Court of Appeals, the CIO communists, so far as Nevada County is concerned, "ain't got nothin' yet."

In Westwood peace has been restored by the same means and under the same stimulus as it has been in Nevada County. The dissentient and peace disturbing elements, a small minority attempting to close the lumber mills, just as they attempted here to close a mine, were expelled from the county. The action was legally, as here, indefensible. From a moral standpoint, however, it conforms to the good American principle of government by majority. Minorities that seek by force to work their will upon majorities, we suspect have in prospect a long hard winter in the United States. Such incidents, as that of Nevada City and of Westwood, and for that matter in New Orleans, serve notice on the country at large that the worm is turning. The sluggish, happy-go-lucky, and often indifferent, American public, is coming alive. It is a heartening sign of the times that the great majority, the hardworking taxpayers and industrious peaceful home buyers and owners, are doing some straight thinking. Twenty years ago we repudiated the IWW. Today the nation is on the march again, and communistic elements will do well to offer no obstructions.

Why not a chain gang? The county jail now has an average of about 10 prisoners, there for various offenses, with terms running anywhere from one month to six. The county lodges and feeds these men at considerable expense. In various places throughout the United States the county prisoners earn their keep. In California the state endeavors to recoup part of the subsistence cost of its penal population by putting both men and women prisoners to work. It would not necessarily interfere with the employment of free men. There is a world of work that should be done on streets and roads in Nevada County. Why let prisoners grow soft and unfit for labor when their terms expire? Those that have any manhood would prefer to work. And for those that have none, hard labor might prove their salvation. Men deteriorate quickly in idleness, anywhere, and much faster in the enforced idleness of jails. Why not a chain gang?

"WE WILL CARRY ON," SAYS LOCAL CIO SECRETARY

The following public statement regarding the unanimous decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco Tuesday, denying the National Labor Relations Board jurisdiction in the Idaho Marylond mines case, was yesterday issued by Robert J. Harris, secretary of the CIO affiliate in this city:

"Naturally we are disappointed, to say the least, for we did expect a more favorable decision from the Circuit Court. We wish to state right now, very vehemently, we are not in least finished in this district. Merely set back some. We are confident that the United States Supreme Court will reverse the decision of the lesser court.

"We also believe that when the state legislature reconvenes we will have a "Baby Wagner Act" in this state an we will get justice there. We are firm in the belief that we are right and intend to carry on as before and prove our contention.

(Signed) ROBERT J. HARRIS,
Fin. Sec'ty., Local 283.

WESTWOOD CIO RETURN QUIETLY

Reports from Westwood yesterday indicate that there will be no further disturbance there as a result of CIO activities which lead to their departure a week ago. A caravan of 43 automobiles carrying CIO members, escorted by state highway officers, arrived in Chester a few miles from Westwood yesterday shortly before noon and there was divided into segments of three or four cars each. These arriving in Westwood during the afternoon met with no demonstration of any kind according to reports received by the Nugget.

SECOND SWIM MEET AT CITY POOL SUNDAY

Owing to popular demand another swim carnival will be held at the pool in Pioneers Park next Sunday afternoon and evening. A variety of events has been prepared with many features never seen here before. There will be sack races, missed shoe races, ping pong, egg and spoon race, pillow fights, greased pole grappling and other novelty races.

In the evening there will be a nightgown and candle race. Owing to the unusually hot weather there has been an unusually large attendance at the pool.

MAN IS FINED $25 FOR DRUNKENNESS ON ROAD

Eugene Gray was arrested near the Rainbow tavern for violating a county ordinance which makes it a misdeameanor to be drunk on a highway. The ordinance has no relation to drunken driving. Gray was arrested Wednesday and pleading guilty before Justice of the Peace Mobley, was fined $25, in lieu of which he was given an alternative of 12 1-2 days in jail. His father residing in Roseville, an aged man, who was the first white child born in Truckee, appeared yesterday and paid his son's fine.

CONTRALTO SOLOIST TO SING AT M. E. CHURCH

Miss Alice Hatch, contralto soloist in St. Thomas Episcopal church in Washington D. C., the church President Roosevelt attends, will sing in the Methodist church during the morning service this coming Sunday. Miss Hatch is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music of Rochester, New York, and is visiting for the summer her mother and sister who reside on Prospect Hill.

ROTARY HEARS NOTED SINGER; ALSO GOOD TALK

The Rotary club yesterday heard Miss Alice Hatch, contralto soloist in St. Thomas Episcopal church, Washington D. C., sing four beautiful songs, among them "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." St. Thomas is the church which President Roosevelt attends when he is in Washington.

A. W. McGagin, Nevada County probation officer, delivered a deeply interesting address on his work among delinquent and wayward children in the county. Mr McGagin cited several instances of children who have become a problem not so much to their neglectful parents, as to the community. At the conclusion he stated that easily 80 per cent of all juvenile delinquency in Nevada County springs from broken homes, where children have learned to dislike their step parent, father or mother, where they are almost completely neglected, or where living conditions are such as to lead children into crime.

A large percentage of the children that he has to deal with, Mr. McGagin said, belong to migratory families some of whom live in tents in the woods.

Regarding procedure, Mr. McGagin stated, anyone with a complaint against juvenile offenders may file a petition to the superior court for investigation. This is filed in the county clerk's office and Mr. McGagins duty is to make an investigation when he finds such a petition comes in. If he finds that the complaint is justified he calls it to the attention of the court and takes such steps as the court deems necessary under the conditions found. Often foster homes are found for children whose parents are not considered competent for their upbringing.

He stated that in almost every instance of wayward or delinquent children, the cause could be found in lack of proper training given them by their parents.

LAVA CAP MEN ASK NEW VOTE

Employes of the Lava Cap mine have petitioned the regional director of the National Labor Relations Board in San Francisco, Mrs. Alice M. Rosseter, to hold an election at that property to determine what organization shall represent them in collective bargaining. Whether the CIO can show a majority there is regarded by many of the employes as extremely doubtful. The employes will vote their preference as to whether they will be represented by Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Union, the Mine Workers Protective League, or the non-union group employed in the mine.

At present the CIO affiliate is the bargaining agency and recently they submitted a contract for renewal. Action on this has been delayed, however, until a new vote can be taken. The committee presenting the petition to Mrs. Rosseter consisted of Carl Porter, William Hatch, Phillip Egan and J. J. McClish. The Mine Workers Protective League sponsored the request for a new vote on the bargaining agency. It is reported that the election will be held in the next few days.

FOREST SERVICE BUSY WITH FIRES

The Tahoe National Forest headquarters in Nevada City has been a busy place this week with several small fires, and calls for men for large fires on national forest areas in the northern part of California.

Tuesday night Fire Dispatcher E. L. Stone was kept busy practically all night on calls. Early in the evening a call came for 100 CCC boys to hunt for a lost woman in Grass Valley and twenty boys were dispatched from the Tahoe Ukiah camp east of Nevada City.

At 12:35 a call came from the Spanish mine that there was a fire near the mine. Crews from the mine sent out and by the time forest service assistance arrived the miners had been of very material benefit in keeping the blaze under control and it was soon extinguished.

At 3:30 in the morning a call came from Assistant Region Fire Chief Gustafson for help to go into the Orleans section on the Klamath district. The five men sent out were, A. Spears, camp boss; Ranger F. Meggers, Camptonville, as the division boss; Jim Gleason, Truckee, Jim Wheeler, Big Bend, both went as sector bosses. Tony Rom, Nevada City warehouseman, as crew boss.

At 4:30 a call was receiced from the regional office in San Francisco for 15 crew bosses to go to Hayfork. Trinity county National forest. The men sent were, Nelson Stone, Truckee; "Red" Linn. North Bloomfield and Cherry Hill lookout; D. C. Baker, Columbia Hill lookout, Everett Thomts, Camptonville, and Bob Yeo, Big Bend. This group of men left at 8:40 Wednesday morning.

All positions made vacant by call for men in other forest areas have been filled by hiring emergency guards and transferring other guards. Both the Klamath and Hayfork fires are extensive.

Every day since the 14th fires have been reported from "dry electrical" storms on the high elevations on the east side of the national park. Weather forecaster at Mt Shasta sent out notices of several days more of electrical storms.

Last Saturday afternoon Leland S. Smith and E. M. Stone, on the local staff of the Tahoe National forest, made an airplane survey for "sleeper" fires. A "sleeper" fire is one that has evidently been extinguished but continues to smolder and again breaks out. The trip was made by American River canyon, Rubicon Point, Tahoe Lake, Truckee, on to Weber Lake around the Sierra buttes, Canyon Creek and the lower foothill country to Grass Valley. It took two hours and four minutes and no fires were found. Stone remarked it was a splendid trip except where currents of hot air from the Sacramento Valley met the cool currents coming down from Lake Tahoe, which made rough flying. Mr. Smith took a number of pictures on the trip.

E. L. Baxter, assistant supervisor in charge of fire control went to Forest Hill to make a survey of conditions in that area. Two lightening fires were reported from there the first of the week.

W. P. Lee, engineer in charge of road and bridge construction and new buildings, left Wednesday for Downieville and Sierraville. Several buildings are being built for a headquarters at Sierraville. More funds are to be allotted next year to complete a fine program of building for that section of the national forest. Bunkhouses, storehouses, office, cottages, and other buildings will make a fine unit when completed.

A final check with the Tahoe National Forest headquarters at Nevada City last evening revealed that all men are being held for quick contact till the fire situation clears in the northern part of California where two large fires are raging over hundreds of acres of land in Trinity and Klamath national forests.

Ranger Frank McCaslan and Protective Assistant, Emerson Varren, North Bloomfield, and J. D. Rafferty from the local office were taken to the Loma Rica airport and placed aboard a chartered plane, out of Oakland, at one o'clock yesterday. They went to Montague and into the Klamath National Forest.

Dispatcher A. E. Stone stated all local vacancies made by sending a number of men into the two northern forests have been filled.

Later investigation revealed that Tapley had registered fraudulently as a voter in North Bloomfield. In admitting his fraudulent registration he stated that he did so in order to vote for Arleigh Laird for county superintendent of schools.

Tapley made conflicting statements as to his place of birth, and his entry into the United States from Canada. This matter has been referred to the United States immigration authorities by District Attorney Vernon Stoll.

CAMP PAHATSI HOST TO 121 BOY SCOUTS, CUBS

The third week of Boy Scout Camp Pahatsi opened with the largest registration in the history of the camp. There is a total of one hundred and twenty one campers, including the staff, which is also the largest in camp history.

This week, in addition to the Boy Scouts, there are Cubs from all parts of the Tahoe Area Council. The camp is divided into two separate groups, working apart from each other, the Cubs under Camp Co-ordinator Sam Partridge and the Scouts under Leadership of Odolph Santaga.

The Cubs are divided into two groups of approximately thirty five each, group one under supervision of acting Cub Master Russel Hupe, with assistance of Dick Briant and Rob Berriman; group two, Cub Master Harris Paxton, Bob Vincent and Ronald Johns. In addition to members of the senior staff, each den has as a leader a scout who has volunteered his services.

In the scout gang there are fifty one boys under Scout Master Adolph Santaga and John Phillips, assistant.

The groups work independently of each other, with time being alloted for camp clean up, swimming, handicraft, instruction by age groups, rest periods, games, boating test passing, and probably the most popular pass time of all, eating. Plenty of wholesome and nourishing food is provided by Mrs. Black, who has been with the camp almost from its start, assisted by the kichen police who are selected from the camp, a different group serving each day.

In the evening the boys are entertained at camp fire by stunts, plays, songs and stories under direction of Dougas Conway. In this direction the fellows are encouraged to participate in order to provide training and experience for public appearance, dramatics and public speech.

"We Can't Afford Death..."

In their plain, small coffins last week lay the bodies of two little curly-headed Oakland boys, victims of a hit-run driver—sacrificed, not to high-speed motor cars, nor to vicious intent of the youthful driver of the death car—but to a criminally lax system of penalties for traffic violations!

A lengthy record of arrests for speeding and for failing to stop at arterial intersections had reached its logical culmination here.

The grim words of the children's grief-stricken father will strike hard into the hearts of everyone who reads them:

"People in our circumstances can't afford death. We can barely afford life. I haven't had steady work since 1930, and can afford only sustenance for my family. Tragedy doesn't come under that heading."

Certainly no more dramatically bitter proof of a senseless and ineffective system of retribution for traffic violations is needed. Traffic tags for speeding should be as impossible to "fix" as a federal court summons. Lawful penalties should be exacted in every case, without recourse. And repeated misadventures with the traffic laws should unalterably necessitate forfeit of driving privileges.

The heartbroken words of Dan Kelly, father of the two dead little boys, should find their answer on the lips of every mother and father of children who must venture on the street. "Our only solace is in the hope that other parents may have greater protection for their children than we had for ours."

Certainly a general tightening-up of safety regulations is desperately needed. And it will come only of an aroused public, realizing that it can't "afford" such useless sacrifice of life any better than sorrowing Dan Kelly, demands drastic action for its own protection.—Contributed.

Work To Be Done

Henry Ford says America still is the land of opportunity. Scouting the contention that the so-called machine age has crowded men and women out of jobs, he counters:

"There aren't enough hands, brains and skill in this world of ours to do the work that needs to be done."

In a copyrighted interview with John Bradford Main of the Boston Evening American, a few days ago, the world's No. 1 industrialist pointed his arguments with quaint bits of homely philosophy. To the hundreds of thousands of young men and young women who have come out of school during the depression and who are wondering whether or not there is a place for them, as well as to the older persons who perhaps have lost their jobs, he says:

"There isn't a man, woman or child living who can't find some useful thing to do. Find it and do it for its own sake—for the sake of working, of being useful, of producing something. The trouble is, we have placed the emphasis on money—on the pay instead of the job. Now we're beginning to see it's the work that's important. You can't be of use to anyone and not be rewarded for it. You can't give away something and get nothing, any more than you can get something for nothing. Security? There isn't any such thing as security! The only thing that makes anyone secure is what he knows and what he can do."

Nothing particularly new, perhaps, in Mr. Ford's words. It's just a homely phrasing of the American Philosophy—a philosophy of common sense, which too many Americans today are losing sight of—Contributed.

A Very Important Subject

H. M. L. Jr.

My subject for today, kids, will be cute girls. Anyone not interested in the topic may leave the lecture room at once. No one leaving? Splendid, it is just as I expected. Everyone past the infantile stage is interested. This applies to both sexes, for besides men every woman, including those in the cute, young class, is interested. If they consider themselves cuter than most they are much interested in why they are cuter, if they are forced to realize their uncuteness, they dream of possessing ruby lips, witching smile and all the fixings. Due in part to their intense universal interest in attractive damosels, they constitute one of the most important subjects for discussion in the world. The sun, they say, never sets on the British flag, but by crack, it never sends out a ray of light that doesn't hit hundreds of thousands of people who are discussing cute girls.

Wars, catastrophes, revolutions, come and go, but attractive maids are always with us, dazzling, bewitching, fascinating. There is nothing like them. Like the poor, they are ever present in large numbers. Who doubts the vital importance of pretty lasses? Ask some one if they like pretty girls. Ask several. Ask a hundred and make a survey. Well after a hundred per cent will be yes, and the extra per cent will be from people who overheard you question, and answered spontaneously. "Sure I do."

One of the delightful and remarkable facts about cute girls is that they are all different. Every one. A friend of mine once tried to classify young ladies of charm into three classes; the bubbling over, the wilted flower, and the clinging vine. It was impossible because cuties have such infinite gradations of bubblingness. wiltedness, and clingingness. Then again, one who was bubbling over like coffee left too long on the stove, a moment ago, may in an instant switch to a clinging vine like a hundred year old Virginia creeper. On the other hand the clinging vine may wilt and the wilted flower bubble, or our loss may pass through all three stages with lightening like transitions. I said to my friend, frankly, friend, you are way off on the wrong foot in this girl classification business. Girls were never intended to be strictly classed in your flower, vine and bubble groups. It is deeper than that, pal."

I have developed a splendid method of classifying cute numbers according to their personalities as expressed by their greetings. There is the type, who says. "Gosh, you have a swell tan." These lack imaginations. They leave you feeling that if you had just stepped from long confinement in a dungeon cell and were whiter than the Count of Monte Cristo, they would still say, "Gosh, you have a swell tan." Then there is the girl who says "Hello, sport, have you been sober lately?" She may be known as the worldly type, full of knowingness and cynical quips like the above. Anyhow, that is an easy one to answer. You may either say —yes, or no, guiding your answer of course by the concepts of truth you learned as a child. "Hello, sport, have you been sober lately," leaves you in a much better spot, conversationally than when a "Gosh you have a swell tan" miss says her piece and then merely goggles her eyes, waiting for a rejoiner.

There is the coy lass, typified by her gambit, "I saw you the other day, but you didn't see me." And the argumentative soul. "Say, I have a bone to pick with you." There is the motherly girl; "have you your woolies on today?" she says. Too we must not omit the "forthy type", who says. "Say Big Boy, what 'er you doin' tonight," this type we will not discuss for heaven's sakes.

There are, I admit, other systems of girl classification, but none so revealing and accurate as the opening statement, or gambit classification. There is for instance the method of a friend who classifies them all according to eyes. Not number of eyes, for the great majority are equipped with one on each side of the nose, a pair. His classification has to do with size and color. There is, he says, the big brown cow-eyed type. All he has to say in describing this type is that it is. "O. K." Then he has the blue saucer eyed type which fails to give a thorough explanation, because, whenever you ask him he says, "Say did I ever tell you about that little blonde—etc. From there on science loses and exaggeration gains. Hard grey eyes, he says, are not found in the eye sockets of cute numbers, but green eyes—"Pardner," he says, "you really have something there." He claims to have made quite a psychologic study of the effect of rays pouring out of green eyes. When a green-eyed charmer focuses on you, he says. and turns on the current, it is just as if someone threw a cold bucket of water over your head. You splutter. Your heart starts going oom-boom, oom-boom, and a strange phrase such as "mavnex dance" or "how-aboutadate tonight." pops out of your mouth.

Well, kids, the lecture hour is over and I hope you have a slight glimmering of the stupendous importance of cute girls in this world. And you there in the second row, yes, you with the green lamps and all, stay after class a few moments. I—uh-want to -uh- talk to you about that -uh-paper—yes, that paper—you know. Class dismissed, that is—all but you.

GRASS VALLEY WOMAN LOST FEW HOURS, FOUND

Grass Valley citizens were thoroughly aroused Tuesday when word was given out that Mrs. T. H. Roberts, 62 years of age weighing 90 pounds, had left her home at 1:50 in the afternoon. Fully 300 men and boys joined in the search until she was found at 9:15 in the evening.

Mrs. Roberts, formerly of Globe, Arizona who has been staying with her daughter, Mrs. Enid Roberts in Grass Valley in the interests of her health, evidently became homesick for her old home.

When late afternoon came and no trace was found the fire alarm was turned in bringing between 300 and 400 men to the street where Fire Chief Jack Frank called for volunteers. Twenty CCC boys from Camp White Cloud on the Tahoe Ukiah highway north of Nevada City arrived at about the time Mrs. Roberts was found. Dud Ducotey and Ivor Richards found Mrs. Roberts with their flashlights. She was sitting on a shelp of rock with her feet in the shallow waters of Empire creek back of the North Star mine. Leo McGrath assisted in carrying the frail little woman a half mile to place her in a car and take her home. She would not tell of her intentions, remaining quiet throughout the whole time.

THIS AND THAT

By ROY GRIFFITH DEETER

We burble — Charles Lamb did very well on a roast pig, so we will try a disertation on sulfanilamide—or shall we? Which reminds us, what does 99 thumps, 99 thump, 99 thumb, make you think of? Give up-A centipede with a wooden leg! Fooled you that time and w,e-.. feeling as if two snakes had bitten us. . . well if not snakes, at least something long and wriggly.

About Magnolias: We had a lovely gift the other day of magnolia blossoms, enormous waxy majestic things which we cared for tenderly, but darn it they started to turn brown almost immediately, we still kept them, they are the hardest things to throw away, and then behold in a day we discovered we really had something, these gorgeous flowers became even more gorgeous as they fade, turning a thick soft, luscious brown, which against their large shiny green leaves give the most exotic impression, try it sometime, or are we a little late with our discovery?

This week's high spot in picturesque speech: Speaking of a waterfall, we quote: "Water, like fingers, caressing the soft shoulder of a rock," We wish we had thought of that one.

And speaking of such things, we have been re-enjoying Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Tish" stories They are just as funny upon the second reading, in fact we believe they are funnier, between the blackberry cordial and Aggie's teeth the reader has many hilarious anxious moments. We like Cornelia Otis Skinner's "Excuse it please", too, but one has a feeling, that unless you have seen or heard Miss Skinner, the book loses something, one has to read it with that subconscious visualization.

Around town at noon: We have noticed little splashes of mud, here and there lately. We presume the political season is now open. We feel we might safely prognosticate that galoshes will be in order before said season closes.

And so with these words of speculation or something, we say to you, cheerio, everybody!

SACRAMENTO CAMP FIRE GIRLS AT LAKE VERA

Sacramento Camp Fire Girls at Camp Minaluta on Lake Vera north of Nevada City are celebrating their tenth camp birthday this summer. The first session girls had a special banquet with Alex Ashen and daughter, Miss Ruth Ashen, both of Sacramento as special guests who told of the first years of the camp at the present site.

The second session campers combined the birthday celebration with a Fourth of July banquet. The third session campers, now at the camp, were hostesses last week to campers and leaders of the other three camps on the lake; as well as to friends from Nevada City. A picnic supper of hamburgers, punch and ice cream cones was served on the lake shore and the evening program around the camp fire was given by girls from Camp Augusta of the Piedmont Camp Fire Girls, Camp Celio of the Oakland Berkeley Camp Girls and Camp Gold Hollow of the Girl Reserves. Over 400 campers and friends participated in the camp singing that completed a most enjoyable evening.

LAKE OLYMPIA PRESENTS BIG HIT BAND SAT.

Again Joseph and Carter the two directors of the band named after them, will appear at the now famous Lake Olympia dance resort this Saturday evening July 23.

No trite sayings of any publicity man is necessary to advise the dancing public that Joseph and Carter's band is one of the most outstanding dance bands which has appeared in this section. Their melodiously swingey tunes have that personality appeal which makes of them the dance band supreme. Both of these young directors are musicians of high standing, both being able to play and direct concert music as well as all the new dance arrangements, much of which incidentally they arrange themselves. This does in reality give them the edge over many other bands, but at least so far as the dancers are concerned their numbers are very likely more danceable.

CARTER

Sot it is that the dance management of the island pavilion in Olympia park because of the acclaim accorded this band, has decided to present them again Saturday evening, July 23.

Maurice Kach who has conducted the dances at Lake Olympia for the past several months, has announced that the dance Saturday night, July 23, featuring the Joseph-Carter orchestra will be the last given at the lake resort under his management. Other business matters make it impossible for Mr. Kach to devote his time to conducting the dances in the full-time manner he desires. Rather than disappoint dance crowds with inferior entertainment he has announced retirement.

During the past thirteen weeks some of the biggest names in popular dance bands have been presented at Lake Olympia and received the acclaims of record crowds. Mr. Kach has announced his sincere thanks to the public for the generous support andattendances accorded the Lake Olympia affairs during the spring-summer season.

TO CANADA ON BIKES

Robert Sibold and Clyde Cavanaugh of Ontario, southern California stopped over in Nevada City yesterday when enroute by bicycle to Calgary and Lake Louise, Canada. The two young men are students at Chaffey College. The boys were employed at Camp Baldy last season but storms last winter destroyed the camp and they decided to visit relatives in Canada during their vacation. They came up the coast to San Jose where newsmen took their pictures with their big packs on their bikes. They average about 100 miles per day.

Political Announcement

When an accident occurs along the highway or a car goes over a cliff, killing one of the occupants and injuring the others, who would you rather see arrive on the scene? A Doctor who is also Coroner and can render the necessary life-saving measures to prevent further death or a lay undertaker who must get the injured in for medical aid?

We have in our County capable Undertaking Establishments, whose business is burial. This is NOT the duty of the Coroner's Office, which must determine causes of death. When autopsies are necessary, they must call in a physician to make the required post-mortem examination.

When chemical analysis in poison cases are required or diseased tissues must be examined, lay coroners send these specimens to outside sources for diagnosis at the tax-payers expense. The undersigned had a special course at Rush Medical College to enable him to do this work.

A physician qualified, trained, and equipped to handle all such cases here in our own County is better fitted for the office of Coroner than a layman. Many states and communities have recognized the fact that the Coroner's Office rightfully belongs to a professional man, whose mission and duty qualifies him for this office.

Your support is respectfully solicited for Coroner.

DANIEL L. HIRSCH, M. D.

Miss Helen Jean Tovend of Modesto is a guest of Miss Helen Arbogast in Nevada City this week. Both graduated from College of the Pacific at Stockton this spring and have schools.

FATHER OF SEVEN DESERTS FAMILY FOR GIRL OF 19

CAMPTONVILLE, July 21.—Formal complaint was sworn to Monday in the local justice court against Mercer Hinds, for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Hinds, a married man with seven children residing at Oak Valley, went to a dance Saturday night, and after the dance instead of going home, he secretely met with a 19 year old girl, hired a car to take them to Grass Valley, thence he told the driver they were going to Marysville.

In leaving, Hinds left his wife and seven children without food and in despair. Probation Officer E. B. Stanwood of Marysville came up Tuesday and took the children to the detention home at Marysville.

GRAPE GROWERS MEET AT PEARDALE JULY 29

An election on the prorate plan of grapes will be held at Peardale Friday, July 29. The hours will be from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Agricultural Commissioner L. G. Lageson urges any grape grower who has not received a notice of election to contact his office. All persons owning one acre or more in grapes are eligible to vote.

Nevada County has about 300 acres of grapes and has been included in the prorate plan. As there is a tremendous surplus of wine in wineries and raisins from last season the growers decided to hold this election to decide if the prorate plan is desired, and the prorate commission will take charge of the huge crop.

Plans are to handle an estimated one million tons of wine grapes. The wine makers will handle 550,000 tons of wine grapes at $15. per ton; the next lot of 300,000 tons to be handled will be made into commercial brandy at purchase price for the fresh fruit of $12.50 per ton; the last lot to be handled by the R. F. C. and local banks the amount being 150,000 tons. Vintners will make high proof spirits and when it is sold and all costs deducted, the growers will receive a percentage.

JAPANS INTERNAL COLLAPSE MAY LOSE CHINA WAR

NEW YORK, July 21.—Political and economic collapse at home threatens Japan with defeat in her war with China even more seriously than the prospect of reverses on the battlefield, Carl Crow, writer and authority on the Far East, said today on the eve of Japan's scheduled invocation of the economic clauses of its National Mobilization Law.

The decision made last month by the Japanese government, setting July 15 as the effective date for this action, Crow said, seems to confirm reports that Japan is nearing the financial breaking point and "eventually may be faced with a major upheaval of the masses; who today are denied even the simplest necessities of life.

Crow's statement was made in response to a query sent to him as a recognized authority on the Far Eastern situation by the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China, in an effort to gauge future Chinese relief needs. In his reply to the Medical Bureau, Crow expressed the belief that suffering in China was becoming increasingly severe and that even if the war were to end tomorrow, the need for medical aid to civilians would continue for many months thereafter.

"Japan's economic plight is evident when it is realized," Crow said, "that her budgeted outlay for 1938-39, totalling 7,718,000,000 yen, is approximately 238 per cent higher than for the last year of peace. This staggering increase is due to the fact that the invasion of China costs Japan $5,000,000 a day.

"Japan's national debt is $58 per capita, while her national income is only two dollars more, or $60. While Japan has to import a large part of her war materials, she so far has been unable to negotiate any foreign loans, and even is having difficulty getting regurlar commercial credits. Her present tax schedule, terrifically high as it is, cannot cover even the deficit in her regular budget. As a result, the cost of the war has to be met by internal borrowing.

"Taxes in Japan have risen 35 per cent and real wages have dropped 19 per cent since the seizure of Manchuria in 1931, which is generally regarded as the beginning of the Japanese militarists' program of aggression against China. Far from profiting by this campaign of conquest, the Japanese people have been reduced to pitiful poverty, and are existing on a diet which in many cases is below the normal subsistence level."

Touching on the unrest of the masses, Crow said that all clothing, food stuffs, medical supplies, transportation facilities and industrial materials are under iron-clad governmental control. Tokyo streets, he said are depleted of traffic because of the rationing of gasoline, which is limited to two gallons a day for private cars. Store counters are becoming bare, due to the ban on the importation of over 700 articles of trade. One of Nippon's largest industries, the manufacture of cotton for domestic consumption, is prohibited.

Under the latest restrictions, the author continues, the Japanese people must tighten their belts even more. When the Mobilization Law was passed by the Diet last March, he said, the cabinet tacitly promised that it would not be invoked during the present conflict. In May, after severe Japanese reverses on the battlefields, 11 of the 30 articles of the bill, relating to the registration of all adults with the police, the suppression of dissenting groups and other matters, were put into effect.

"The decision to invoke the economic clauses of the bill is an attempt to meet an increasingly dangerous situation," Crow concluded. "The government is trying to clamp down on foreign trade, to stabilize the value of the yen and at the same time to halt the swift upward spiral of commodity prices. The life and property of the humblest citizen and the biggest corporation are placed completely in the hands of a government which appears to be headed straight for economic chaos."

Frank Holmes of the Gold Canyon mine on the South Yuba was a Nevada City visitor Wednesday. He said it was extremely hot in the canyon, not a breath of a breeze on Tuesday or Wednesday.

"GOLD DIGGERS IN PARIS" AT THEATRE SUN.

"Gold Diggers in Paris," the sixth of the famous musical comedy series, will be shown at the Nevada Theatre on Sunday and Monday night. Ray Enright and Busby Berkeley directed, and the musical numbers, which include "I Wanna Go Back to Bali," "Day Dreaming," "Stranger in Paree," and "The Latin Quarter," were supplied by tunesmiths Harry Warren, Al Dubin and Johnny Mercer.

Rudy Vallee, crooning maestro of the air waves, heads the cast and golden voiced Rosemary Lane is featured opposite him, with Gloria Dickson doing a feminine menace. The Schnickelfritz Band, a specialty outfit that is taking the country by storm with their goofy antics, take care of the rhythm with Hugh Herbert, Allen Jenkins, Melville Cooper and Mabel Todd in charge of the comedy. And then there are the Gold Diggers themselves, as luscious a group of chorines as Hollywood has to offer. Welded together by an hilarious story, "Gold Diggers in Paris" promises the maximum in entertainment value.

Laurel Parlor Installs New Officers

Beautiful were the installation services held in Odd Fellows hall Wednesday evening when Laurel Parlor, N. D. G. W., seated Miss Esther Tremaine as president and Mrs. Lida Talbot was retired to past president. Deputy Grand President Sallie Blakley of Grass Valley was installing officer and Mrs. Vera Hansen acted as supervising deputy grand president.

Mrs. Talbot sweetly sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" as Miss Tremaine was presented at her office. An escort of six members accompanied the grand marshal as each new officer was conducted to their stations. Each officer carried an arm bouquet. Miss Madge Pianezzi also sang several songs.
al gifts.

Mrs. Talbot was presented with a beautiful set of candlesticks and Mrs. Effie Goering received her past presidents pin. Past Grand President Esther Sullivan of Marysville was present and gave a short talk appropriate to the occasion. A little innovation was the initiation of Mrs. Esther Tremaine by her daughter, Miss Esther Tremaine, who had just been installed as president.

Miss Jean Gleason, who is leaving for Sacramento to teach school, resigned her office of first vice president and was presented with sever-
